J. Frank Deal, one of the best know citizens of Bedford, died at Hotel Arlington Wednesday morning at five o'clock, of dropsy. The deceased had been sick for over two years.

in Friend's Cove, two miles west of Rainsburg, on December 25, 1850 He remained at home, working on his father's farm and attending school until he was twenty-one years old and then went to Illinois, where he resided a year or two, after which he returned to his parents' home and stayed there two or three years. On October 28, 1875, he was united in mar riage to Miss Louise Stiver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Stiver, who at Mr. and Mrs. Deal removed to Dutch on a farm there for several years They then moved to Belden, where Mr Deal engaged in butchering. About fifteen years ago they came to Bed ford, since which time Mr. Deal has been successively engaged in conducting a meat market, selling farm machinery, keeping bar at the Union hotel, running a livery stable and as agent for the Bedford Mineral Water company. For the past few years he was interested in a broker's office at Altoona. Mr. Deal is survived by his wife, his father, one daughter, Gertrude, wife of Warren Snyder, proprietor of Hotel Arlington, and the following brothers and sisters: Albert W. Deal, of Lanark, Ill; of Johnstown, and Mrs. Daniel S. Berkey, of near Goshen, Ind. Oae sister, Mrs. Frank Hersbberger, of and a brother, Clarence Deal, was killed in Colorado sixteen years ago by a bullet discharged from a gun, or revolver, in a burning hardware store. Superintendent of Huntingdon's Schools The Mechanicsburg Daily Journal pays the following merited compliment to a former school teacher of Bedford township: directors of the town of Huntingdon, Pa Prof. E. R. Barclay, principal of the Me chanlesburg high school, was unanimously elected superintendent of the public school of that borough, for a term of three years at a salary of $1,200 per year. Prof. Bar ciay has decided to accept and will enter upon his new duties about June 1 of thi year.

This election takes from Mechanicsbu an earnest, energetic and thoroughly com-potent teacher, and what is our loss become Huntingdon's gain. During the two year that he has had charge of the high school ness and the wisdom of the board in selecting him for this responsible position. He gave the schools his undivided attention, introducing several reforms that have proven beneficial. He was ever watchful for such measures that would advance the schools to a higher plane and his interests in their welfere was shown by his close attention to them. We regret to lose him, but as he goes from us to better his position, we cannot help but congratulate him and wish him well.

The power of the black prophot was broken and he has seen no victory for the Madhists' cause from that day to this. In leading the British hosts victory seems to have deserted his banner. A series of his blockhouses prevented the advance of the Boers until, maddened to desperation, DeWet, the great Boar leader, resolved to break the cordon or die. He divided is army in two great advancing powers and dashed against the posts which British valor defended. The advance was covered by thousands of cattle and sheep, among which the wily Boers moved as if they bore charmed lives. The fight for a short time was desperate but when the sun rose the next morning it found General DeWet on the south side of the cordon with boundless plains stretched out before him that gave pasture to his famished cattle and horses and left him ready to renew the fight before the reveille tap should awaken the tired British hosts to begin another battle. As the part omitted is of especial interest to all those who are devoted to the cause of education we herewith publish the portion which we were compelled to omit from our issue of May 9: The compulsory law, which was approved on the 11th day of July last, is advanced somewhat in this county worthy of some attention at this time. Its enactment involved not only the placing of a new and stronger measure upon the statute books but also the repeal of all former laws upon the subject of compulsory attendance. Among its provisions is the one which gives a school board the authority at the June meeting to reduce the pariod of compulsory attendance to not less than 70 per cent. of the term and to fix the date upon which that period shall begin. As the law was not approved until more than a month after the June meeting of last year had been held it ecame impossible to comply with the There were at Antioch, among the members of the church there, some letter of the law in that particular. prophets and teachers. But in the future he will be fully justified in exercising this power, especially where the violation is wilful Before this subject is passed, however. it should be suggested that the cooperation of the public should be enlisted to aid the school board in discharging its duties. All possible explanation and moral sussion should precede drastic measures. A public sentiment in favor of the law is es sential to its complete enforcement, even though the new act clothes school boards with ample authority to bring offenders to terms. When understood clearly the law must appeal strongly to every reasonable man who loves his country and the children upon whose shoulders our government will soon rest. place of glass.

The first duty of the proprietor in making a patron comfortable is to stop up the holes in the paper window pane. He never tears the paper off entirely and replaces it with a new one, because the sheet of paper is worth about one-tenth of a cent, and the innkeeper is not wasteful. Indeed he pastes little slips of paper over the holes until all the light that filters through it is of a mottled bue. At one end of the mule shed is the kitchen of the inn. It is here that the meals for all the patrons are prepared to be eaten in the rooms. The menu is not elaborate. It consists only of bowls of rice and tea. Should the traveler desire a greater variety of food, he can buy it himself in the market, and his own servant can cook it in the kitcher of the inn. To sleep on the bed of a Chinese inn would be for a foreign an impossibility were it not that he is always so exhausted at the end of each day's journey that he finds it difficult to remain awake ten minutes after alighting from his pony. He lies down on the mut that covers the hard heap of musi and surprises himself at he soundness of his shunber.

The one redeeming thing about the inn is its cheapness. Just as the trav eler is about to depart in the morning the proprietor tells him the amount of his bill. Everything is charged on the "European plan." Every cup of tea, every rushlight candle, the paper window pane, are all itemized in the long list which the proprietor reels off in singsong, but the total is surprisingly The cost of food and lodging for one night for a traveler and two serv ants, with stabling and fodder for his ponies and cart mules, is about 50 cents.-New York Mail and Express. When General Weyler was sent Spain as governor general to Manila, Don Carlos Palanca, the wealthy Spaniardized Chinaman, determined to send Mrs. Weyler a gift, the customary way of obtaining the good will of the Spanish officials. He found at a jeweler's two necklaces, each costing $20,000 and both being so beautiful that he could not choose between them. So he sent them both to Mrs. Weyler with the message that she should make her choice. He received a warm letter of thanks from her, stating that the necklaces were so beautiful that she could not decide between them and hence would keep both, which she did.

Theories About Drowned Bodies. It was a popular theory in days gone by that the body of a drowned man would float the ninth day. Sir Thomas Browne alludes to it as believed in his time, and in his "I'seudo-doxia Epidemics" there is a discussion on this fanciful notion. It was also believed that the spirits of those drowned at sea were doemed to wander for a hundred years owing to the rites of burial having never been properly bestowed upon their bodies .- Notes and Queries.

Something new for

THE METROPOLITAN CLOTHING AND SHOE HOUSE.

A TEN DOLLAR SUIT.

E mean that the man who wants to pay $10 for a suit shall have the biggest Ten Dollars' worth he ever had. We know that it may result in lots of men buying these suits who intended to pay more. But that doesn't deter us when we can increase the suits who was a suit to the suits of the suits values we ofter. Our $10 suits have always equaled the $12 grade anywhere else -$13.50 or $15 would be nearer their comparative worth. There's no more style in any garment than you'll find in these suits. The styles are new patterned cheviots and cassimeres, the right spring cut, but it's the value in them that makes them remarkable at the price. Take a look. Don't forget us when you want Boys' or Children's Clothing.

SHOE TALK.

F we were to tell you that we sell the best shoes in this part of the state for little money, it wouldn't be a bit flattering ourselves. If you ever wore a pair of our shoes then you know all about them. But if you did not, we'd like for you to try u pair. We fit men, women, boys, misses and children. Every pair sold to you with our guarantee—your money back if not satisfactory. Can any one do any better for you? Try us and you'll be satisfied.

A Few Reminders About Men's Furnishing Goods. : : : :

E keep New York City here in Bedford all the time. It's the many little fancy and smart fixings that make a man's dress look just right. It's the hat, tie, shirt, hosiery, collar, cuffs, gloves, etc., etc., more than anything else, that make and mark the good dresser, but haberdushery to be right must not be one moment behind the edict of fashion. Here you'll find every late fad all ready for you just as soon as it appears in New York. We charge nothing extra because the new things can be had here first. Come, see.
